About us

The Kongal-boyal Wirin (Spirit of the South-west) Therapeutic Community is located 13km from the Nannup town centre in one of the most picturesque areas of South West WA. The facility is set on a 90 acre rural property surrounded by natural bush, with tall trees, abundant wildflowers, hilly outcrops, captivating rural views and plenty of wildlife.

The service utilises the Therapeutic Community (TC) Model of Treatment. This model concept of "Community as Method". Residents will actively participate in group living, therapy, work and activities that drive individual change and help them achieve their goals.

With an emphasis on social learning and mutual self-help, residents will address their AOD issues in a holistic way. A strengths-based approach, therapeutic interventions and positive peer support will teach and encourage self-responsibility and guide residents towards optimal health and wellbeing.

Treatment consists of a four-stage program. Residents can tailor their treatment experience to meet their individual needs and identified goals. A minimum stay of at least 16 weeks is recommended.

Consistent with the Cyrenian House commitment to the health of people who access our services, the Kongal-boyal Wirin Therapeutic Community is a tobacco free environment. Support and assistance to remain smoke free is included in the treatment program.

The service has a strong commitment to Aboriginal cultural security and learning, and welcomes both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people as residents.
