Cyrenian House is certified against the Alcohol and Other Drug and Human Services Standard and the Australasian Therapeutic Communities Association Standard.

About us

The Serenity Withdrawal Unit is a residential low medical withdrawal service for people (over 18 years) requiring a withdrawal from alcohol and other drugs (AOD). The service offers a safe and supervised home-like environment where people are supported during the withdrawal process.

The Serenity Withdrawal Unit is located at the Serenity Therapeutic Community.

This service is suitable for people over the age of 18 years who are experiencing problems as a result of their alcohol and/or other drug (AOD) use, who require a low medical withdrawal:

- Prior to admission to a residential rehabilitation program
- Prior to returning to the community or attending non-residential treatment.

“ After many visits to rehab it's wonderfully refreshing to attend a detox unit. What I experienced at SWU is welcoming, nurturing, calming and truly understanding to my situation. I have nothing but positive praise for SWU staff. I am so grateful my recovery is beginning. ”

Program elements include:

- A structured and flexible withdrawal program
- Comprehensive assessment of needs and treatment planning
- 24-hour residential care and support
- Assertive referral to support and counselling services where appropriate
- Referral to residential treatment services where appropriate
- Maximum length of stay 14 days
- A smoke and vape free environment with supports to remain smoke and vape free.
