Cyrenian House

Cyrenian House is a not-for-profit non-government organisation that has been operating within the alcohol and other drug (AOD) treatment sector since 1981. Cyrenian House has demonstrated an enduring capacity to deliver a professional and effective treatment service and is one of the leading AOD treatment services in Western Australia.

Cyrenian House supports and upholds a robust standard of cultural competence by recognising cultural needs and reviewing programs to ensure they meet the needs of Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander, CaLD and LGBTQI+ communities.

Cyrenian House acknowledges the past and present Traditional Custodians of this land and recognise our services are situated on Whadjuk Nyoongar Country, Bibbulmun Country and Yawuru Country.

Cyrenian House is certified against the Alcohol and Other Drug and Human Services Standard and the Australasian Therapeutic Communities Association Standard.

Wandoo Rehabilitation Prison Therapeutic Community

Wandoo is a partnership between Cyrenian House and the Department of Justice WA, to deliver the first Therapeutic Community rehabilitation prison of its kind in Australia.

Wandoo Rehabilitation Prison is a 77 bed facility in a campus style setting, with a large oval and surrounded by gardens. The Therapeutic Community Program is a six month voluntary program where residents address AOD issues in a holistic manner. It helps residents learn pro social life skills, strategies to cope with triggers and aims to reduce the risk of relapse and re-offending.

“ Throughout all of my prison sentences I can truly and honestly say this program has been a high light in my life. It has given me a sense of purpose and direction. ”

Therapeutic Community Model

A Therapeutic Community is a treatment facility in which the community itself, through self-help and mutual support, is the principal means for promoting personal change. In a Therapeutic Community, residents and staff participate in the functioning of the community, contributing to a psychologically and physically safe learning environment where change can occur. There is a focus on the biopsychosocial, emotional and spiritual dimensions of substance use, with the use of the community to heal individuals and support the development of behaviours, attitudes and values of healthy living. Each resident is expected to engage in all aspects of the program.

Moral Reconciliation Therapy

Moral Reconciliation Therapy (MRT) is a cognitive-behavioural treatment program designed to help promote positive self-identity and to help individuals make better decisions for themselves and for the people around them. The group operates with an open-ended format, meaning individuals can enter the group at any time. The program consists of 12 steps. Participants complete the steps as homework outside of the group and then present each step during group time.
